CAMPAIGN FOR GREATER CITY STARTS FRIDAY

Whole City Is Invited To Mass-meeting In Elk Hall Friday Evening

BURT WILLIAMS TO SPEAK
Inspiring Addresses And Entertainment Planned For Meeting

The Greater Appleton movement will be explained to every man and woman who will go to Elk hall at 7:30 Friday evening to attend the great mass meeting to boost the city. Burt Williams of Madison will be the principal speaker and will tell of his plan for the full development of Wisconsin through cooperation and of the part which every citizen should play in his community.

Arrangements for the community gathering were made on Tuesday evening by a committee for that purpose. Besides Mr. Williams' stirring address which has been highly praised in other Wisconsin cities, James E. Gheen, educational director of the Greater Appleton movement will tell just what the plan of progress is. Gustave Keller, one of Appleton's foremost community workers, also will make a short address.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENT
A program of entertainment has been planned for the meeting. In spite of the many things which will be discussed, the evening will not be long and tiresome because everything will run on schedule. Every effort is being made to get all the Appleton people to respond to the call to hear the plans.

On Tuesday evening, the listing committee reviewed the names of 1,700 prospects for the membership campaign. On Wednesday, a prospectus of the work of the local chamber of commerce and of the Greater Appleton movement was mailed to each of the prospects. Invitations to attend the mass meeting are included. The committee which includes Robert K. Wolter, John Keller, and H. A. Gloude, has completed its work on Tuesday evening.

The putting on of a campaign for promoting a city of this size and for awakening a new civic interest in a larger number of people takes an enormous amount of preliminary work. The office of the chamber of commerce has been in continual hunt of business in preparation for meetings and conferences which make a movement of this sort possible.

WETS DETERMINE TO STAGE FIGHT

Caucus Decides To Begin War On Severson Law In Assembly

By Associated Press
Madison—Wets in the Wisconsin legislature determined at their second caucus held Tuesday night to demand repeal of the Severson prohibition enforcement statute, as provided for in the Tucker bill now before the lower house. They also will support the bill in the Senate.

There were 38 assemblymen and senators at the caucus, presided over by Senator Merritt E. White, Winnebago. They were unanimous in their belief that a fight should be made for the repeal of the Severson enforcement act, despite a statement credited to Governor Blaine that he would veto any such measure that would reach him.

It is significant that the wets determined to stage their first battles in the lower house. Here they are in undisputed control and expect to hold a decisive majority on any proposal they submit on prohibition. It is their belief that a large vote may influence some senators now on the fence with regard to the issue.

On top of the wet determination to try for repeal of the state enforcement statute came an Anti Saloon league announcement that the drys in the senate were prepared to force the issue on a prohibition referendum. They let it be known that a substitute amendment would be submitted to the Burke resolution, urging congress to repeal the Eighteenth amendment calling for a referendum on the matter.

TIME LIMIT IS SET BY BIG VOTE IN LOWER HOUSE

Extra Pay For Overtime Is Provided In Tucker Measure

Madison—The lower house of the Wisconsin legislature Wednesday went on record as favoring a basic eight hour law for the state when it ordered the Tucker bill engrossed by a vote of 32 to 33.

An amendment offered by Assemblyman Frank L. Prescott, Milwaukee, which would permit men to work longer than eight hours a day if they wished was rejected by a vote of 60 to 32. The bill, introduced by Assemblyman H. G. Tucker, Milwaukee, limits the hours of work per day of employees in any mill, factory or manufacturing establishment to eight hours in one day, watchman excepted. In emergency cases where overtime work is necessary the rate of pay for such work would be a time and one half of the regular rate. An amendment by Assemblyman L. H. Allen, Superior, makes the measure applicable only to establishments employing five or more persons.

The bill also provides that the market commission in ascertaining the cost of production of farm products figure labor on an eight hour a day basis.

W. S. Ford, director of the vocational school, was among those who spoke in opposition to the Titus bill modifying the compulsory education law at a public hearing in Madison Tuesday. The bill proposes reducing the part time school attendance limit from 18 to 16 years.

Among those speaking in favor of the bill introduced by Senator Titus were Mayor A. C. McHenry of Oshkosh and Mayor M. M. Schoetz of Menasha, both representing the Wisconsin League of Municipalities. Representatives of the state board of education, the state federation of labor, farmer-labor leagues and directors of vocational schools spoke against the measure. Assemblyman Antoine Miller of Kaukauna also opposed the bill.

Harding Making Good His Campaign Promise In World Court Plea

Congress Certain to Approve United States Membership in Next Session, Thinks Political Writer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1923 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—President Harding has not repudiated his previous position or taken an attitude inconsistent with previous utterances when he advocates American participation in the world court of international justice.

The white house does not feel that the criticism of a change of policy is right when in Mr. Harding's own campaign speeches are to be found explicit references to the very thing which the Harding administration has proposed to the senate. It was on Aug. 28 1920 in a speech to a delegation of Indiana citizens that Mr. Harding after referring to the advantages for "If, in the failed league of Versailles there can be found machinery which the tribunal can use properly and advantageously, by all means let it be appropriated. I would even go further, I would take and combine all that is good and excise all that is bad from both organizations. This statement is broad enough to include the suggestion that if the league, which has heretofore riveted our considerations and apprehensions, has been so entwined and interwoven into the peace of Europe that it's good must be preserved in order to stabilize the peace of that continent, then it can be amended or revised so that we may still have a remnant of world aspirations in 1918 built into the world's highest conception of helpful cooperation in the ultimate realization.

"I believe humanity would welcome the creation of an international association for conference and world court or the recommendations of such a conference could be accomplished without sacrificing on our part or asking any other power to sacrifice one iota of its nationality."

In another part of the same speech Mr. Harding after discussing the viewpoint of the League of Nations, advocates said:
FOR HONEST ENDEAVORS
"The difference between a court of international justice and the council created by the league covenant is simple but profound. The one is a judicial tribunal to be governed by fixed and definite principles of law administered without passion or prejudice. The other part—association of diplomats and politicians, whose determinations are sure to be influenced by considerations of expediency and national selfishness. The difference is one with which Americans are familiar, the old and fundamental difference between a government of men. I do not mean to say, nor do I mean to permit any such construction that I would decline to cooperate with other nations in an honest endeavor to prevent wars. Nobody living would take that position. The only question is one of practicability within the bounds prescribed by fundamental principles."

The foregoing is an important speech to reproduce at this time for it may contain the keynote of further developments in American foreign policy. At the time it was made (Continued on page 12)

SOCIALISTS WIN TILT IN SENATE TO KILL FORCE

Measure Will Be Fought Over Again March 7 When It Is Believed It Will Die

By Associated Press

Madison—Socialists sponsoring the bill to abolish the Wisconsin National guard won a tactical victory in the state senate when they were successful in preventing a move to suspend rules and take up immediate consideration of their proposal. The measure was made a special order of business March 7 and in the meantime a second hearing will be held before senate state affairs committee Thursday to consider the Socialist proposal.

When the Hirsch bill providing for abolition of the guard was reached on the calendar its author offered a substitute amendment which would repeal the continuing appropriation of the adjutant general. This was done to force over consideration until the next calendar day and to give time for another demonstration by those favoring abolition. The final defeat of the entire bill is assumed.

BURKE DEMANDS ACTION

Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay, in an effort to get immediate consideration moved at once to suspend the rules of the senate declaring that it was time for the legislature to determine whether "Wisconsin is a European colony or an American state."

S o m e administration senators joined the Socialists, however, in voting down the motion to suspend rules and a two-thirds vote required, it was lost 17 to 13.

HOW THEY VOTED

Vote on suspension of the rules follows:

For suspension—Bentley, Burke, Clark, Czerwinski, Gettelman, Kuckuk, Lange, Moran, Morris, Ridgway, Roethe, Skorgmo, Smith, Staudenmeyer, Titus, Verden, and White.

Against suspension—Barber, Birkgren, Cashman, Casperson, Garry, Heck, Hirsch, Huber, Kemp, Polakowski, Quick, Severson, Teasdale. Senators voting against suspension of the rules explained that they did so to permit consideration by the upper house of both the Polakowski bill passed by the assembly and the Hirsch bill in the senate at the same time.

A poll of the upper house shows that the bills will finally be killed almost unanimously except for the Socialists.

COUNTY FIRMS GET ROAD CONTRACTS

Tate And Parker-Wunderlich Will Build New Concrete Highway

William Tate of Bear Creek and Parker-Wunderlich of Greenville were the successful bidders on the two new concrete road contracts that are to be undertaken this summer by the county highway department.

At a meeting of the county-state road and bridge committee Tuesday afternoon the contract for the construction of 2 1/2 miles of concrete on the Appleton-Seconomie road was awarded to Parker-Wunderlich for $47,057.64. Contract for building 1 1/2 miles of concrete on the Clintonville-New London road was granted to William Tate for $30,689.85.

Contractors are required to furnish all the material and must store at least 1,500 barrels of cement for the Clintonville-New London road and 2,500 barrels for the Appleton-Seconomie road between March 1 and May 1.

Schlafli Hardware company was awarded the contract for supplying the county highway department with all necessary automobile tires for the summer.

FRENCH ARREST GERMAN PRINCE

Essex—Prince Friedrich Wilhelm Von Lippe, German nationalist agitator, was arrested here Wednesday by the French authorities. It is charged he has been stirring up agitation against the French and Belgian troops in the Ruhr.

The Prince was an active factor in the German campaign for the retention of upper Silesia. Papers found in his room the French declare show that he was a member of the secret order of the Swastika and the notorious counsel reaction organization. The prince came to the Ruhr several days ago.

MRS. LAFOLLETTE AND 'BOB' DISAGREE

By Associated Press

Madison—Mrs. Belle C. LaFollette, wife of Senator LaFollette, in a telegram to Miss Ada L. James of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association Wednesday declared that she is "heartily in sympathy with the purpose" of the measure before the senate calling for abolition of the Wisconsin National guard. Senator LaFollette, last week declared his opposition to the proposal.

Mrs. LaFollette in her telegram said:

"I have not had opportunity to examine the measure passed by the Wisconsin assembly regarding the state militia but I am heartily in sympathy with its purpose the reorganization act of 1920 makes the National guard a component part of the United States army available for any employment anywhere in the United States in time of emergency and available for war anywhere in the U. S. or elsewhere.

"If the state may lawfully decline to be parties to this plan they have the power to strike a body blow at the militarism and imperialism under which the world is now staggering. Such action on the part of states will afford the foremost practical example of the people's determination to renounce war as a means of settling differences.

"The need of such an example is urgent. I hope Wisconsin succeeds in blazing the way."

DAHL LEAVES CHAIR TO FIGHT MILLER

Outagamie—co Assemblyman Scores In Tilt Over Land Clearing

By Associated Press

Madison—Speaker John L. Dahl, Barronco, left his chair Wednesday to fight for the repeal of the law providing for land clearing demonstrations, a state soil laboratory and a state appropriation amounting to $55,000 yearly.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman A. M. Miller, Outagamie-co, was recommended by the committee on agriculture for indefinite postponement.

Speaker Dahl and other proponents of the bill said that the land clearing demonstrations were not worth a single cent in practical value to the farmers and were characterized as "a good show" or "jokes."

"The majority of farmers can usually teach the students how to blow up stumps," the speaker said and urged the members of the house to vote against the bill.

The house with but three dissenting votes, ordered the bill for engrossment.

WANTS POSTMASTERS FREE FROM POLITICS

By Associated Press

Washington—Postmaster General Work recommended to President Harding Wednesday that selection of postmasters should no longer be considered a political prerequisite of senators and representatives, but should be vested in the postoffice department alone.

At the same time the postmaster general, who retires from his present position on March 4 to become secretary of the interior, recommended that present regulations requiring examination of candidates for postmaster by the civil service commission also be abandoned.

"The postoffice department is a strictly business organization," said Mr. Work, "and it ought to be aided in putting the right man in the right place, as any private business concern would endeavor to do for its own advancement, and not be handicapped either by political considerations or the restrictions entailed in the present plan requiring examination by the civil service commission which does not even give civil service status."

START BOOM FOR HARDING RENOMINATION

Friends Hasten To Action As Dozen Aspirants Are Making Overtures

SEEK CAMPAIGN LEADER

Daugherty, Hilles, Adams And Hays Are Possible Managers

By Associated Press

Washington—Convinced that half a dozen aspirants already are making cautious overtures to test their strength as Republican presidential possibilities for 1924, some of the friends of President Harding have begun work to assure him a renomination.

Thus far the movement on behalf of the president has not reached the proportions of a closely knit organization but it has progressed to the point where it promises to make itself felt in many states before long.

HARDING IS SILENT

The attitude of Mr. Harding himself toward a second term remains unannounced, but it is considered improbable that he will make any public statement of his intentions at least in the near future. There is quite a general agreement among those on the inner circle of Washington politics, however, that a desire for public endorsement of his stewardship will impel him to stand for reelection.

It is upon this presumption at any rate that those who want to see him remain in the white house for another four years, are proceeding.

Attorney General Daugherty, was the preconcertion manager Mr. Harding in 1920 is expected again take a hand in urging a renomination. But for several reasons Daugherty is not expected by his friends to be as active as he was in 1920. His health recently failed him, requiring him to remain in bed for several weeks and although he has virtually recovered he can not take the burden of travel and conference which would fall upon an active campaign manager.

LOOKING FOR MANAGER

Several men who have long been prominent in party affairs have been mentioned as available for the more strenuous work of organization. Charles D. Hilles, a former national chairman, is one of those so considered but he has made no statement. In the background of these considerations lies also the question of who is to manage the Republican campaign after the nomination has been made. The supporters of John T. Adams, the present national chairman, say they expect him to retain that post regardless of the result of the nominating convention.

Discussions of the subject here recently have brought to light, however, an attempt by the friends of Will H. Hays, who managed the 1920 campaign to reinstate him in the chairmanship.

TAXES COLLECTED FROM ONEIDAS ARE TO BE REFUNDED

County Board Charges $2,000
Illegal Funds Back To Town Of Oneida

A total of nearly $2,000 was charged back upon the town of Oneida because of the collection of illegal taxes on Indian property of the Oneida reservation, according to action taken by the county board of supervisors Tuesday afternoon. The appointment by Chairman D. J. Ryan of a new agricultural committee which engaged the county farm agent was confirmed.

These were the principal items of business transacted by the board at the opening of its winter session. Thirty-seven of the forty-one members responded to roll call read by John E. Hantel, county clerk, acting in that capacity for the first time. He also read the call for the meeting which had been signed by 22 supervisors. John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, acted in an advisory capacity for the first time in a session of this board.

LONG REPORT READ

The reading of the report of the committee on illegal taxes consumed nearly an hour, since a separate report was made on each case in which taxes had been illegally collected. Most of the land affected consists of Indian allotments held in trust by the government and is therefore not assessable.

Supervisor Frank Appleton of Oneida asked the board what terms it would allow the town for payment of the sum. District Attorney Lonsdorf informed the board that payment is to be made at the time of the spring settlement with the county treasurer. But when Mr. Appleton was told that the amount was less than $2,000, he answered, "Oh, the town of Oneida is good for $2,000."

Ratification of Chairman Ryan's appointment of the new agricultural committee came after his explanation of the legal angle which had held up the engaging of a county agricultural agent. It was learned that the board's standing committee on rural affairs was not empowered to employ a farm agent and that Chairman Ryan, after consulting with the district attorney and the state department of agriculture, was required to appoint a new committee with authority to engage the agent. This committee consists of Supervisor R. T. Carpenter of Maine, Supervisor Charles Schultz of Hortonville and Malachi Ryan of Buchanan. The original committee has, however, not been abolished.

ASK SPEED ORDINANCE

Supervisor John Tracy of Appleton asked that a speed ordinance be drafted in order that the county might receive a share of the fines collected, the same as the city of Appleton is now receiving its share of the fines for violations of its speed ordinance. The request was referred to the district attorney and the county-state road and bridge committee.

A resolution adopted by the county board of Sheboygan requesting the legislature to adopt legislation that would permit rural corporations to adequately control country dance halls and roadhouses was read. Supervisor Tracy urged the necessity of placing this board similarly on record, and referred to vice rampant in a roadhouse in Winnebago co.

NO ACTION ON DANCES

No action was taken on the matter in this session. Supervisor Jansen reminded the board that such proposed legislation is even now before the legislature, and former District Attorney Fred V. Heinenmann had previously advised the board that there is nothing to detain a town from adopting an ordinance regulating dance halls.

A claim of $1,030 was presented by Elijah Archibette of Oneida for injuries he said he suffered through an accident on state trunk highway 54 in the town of Oneida last December. He charges the county with negligence in the upkeep of the road, maintaining that the road shoulder was incomplete and that guard rails were missing. His injuries have resulted in partial paralysis, he alleges.

The annual report of Reilly, Penner & Benton, auditors, and the annual reports of the clerk of circuit and municipal courts, and petitions for tax rebate on illegal taxes were referred to the finance committee.

ABLE TO STAND ON ITS OWN TOP

Accident proves sturdiness of Buick sedan body.

The favor of fate and the ruggedness of an automobile combined in preserving life and money in an unusual story involving Howard H. Stinson of Somerville, Mass., and his Buick sedan.

Stinson and his brother were driving on an icy pavement just north of Boston when the car skidded, turned completely around, then over into a bank of snow. The weight of the car rested entirely upon the roof as it landed.

Neither occupant received a scratch, and they readily left the car by one of the doors, which worked as perfectly as though the car were resting normally.

To their surprise, the Stinsons found the motor running. The clutch was in and the rear wheels were turning out mileage very fast for a car in repose.

An examination showed that the only damage done consisted of a slight tear in a corner of the roof. There was no broken glass, binding of doors, scratches or bent fenders. Not the slightest damage was done to tank, ventilator, or battery.

BUICK'S Sturdy Construction Saves Lives of Occupants

The story printed above is surely convincing evidence of the rugged construction of Buick bodies and the faithfulness of its motor.

MANY WOMEN MUST FILE U. S. INCOME RETURN THIS YEAR

Wives May Make Separate Returns If They Prefer, Wilkinson Says

Thousands of women are required to file an income tax return and pay the federal tax on their net income for the year 1922, according to a statement issued by A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue for the district of Wisconsin.

No official estimate can be given of the number of such women. Mr. Wilkinson says, but statistics of income for the year 1922, recently issued, show that approximately 503,000 women filed returns for that year, claiming the $1,000 exemption allowed a single person. The amount of net income reported by these women was $1,264,555,727. In addition there were filed 132,181 returns by women claiming an exemption of $2,000 as the head of a family, "a person who supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals closely related to him (or her) by blood, marriage or adoption." Net income reported by these women for the year 1922 amounted to $388,364,530. Under the revenue act now in force the personal exemption allowed the head of a family is $2,500 if the net income for 1922 was $5,000 or less, and $2,000 if the net income exceeded $5,000.

The number of wives making separate returns from husbands for the year 1922 was 77,558 reporting net income of $334,840,465. These figures show the income reported in returns filed by women for an important part of the aggregate income of the people of the United States.

A woman who was widowed during the year 1922, unless the head of a family, or remarried on or before December 31, 1922, may claim a personal exemption of only $1,000. A divorced, or wife who continuously and without necessity makes her home apart from her husband is classed as a single person, and entitled only to the $1,000 personal exemption.

Whether a man and wife are "living apart" for the purposes of the income tax law, depends upon individual circumstances. A wife who supports an invalid husband in a sanatorium may claim the exemption allowed a married couple. The separation is one of necessity.

The revenue act does not prescribe the manner of the exemption allowed a married woman living with her husband. Married couples living together are granted an exemption of $2,500 or $2,000, depending upon whether their combined net income is $5,000 or less, or more than $5,000. Husband and wife may make separate returns or they may make a joint return. In the event separate returns are made, either husband or wife may claim the exemption allowed married persons, or they may divide it between them in such proportion as they choose.

The period for filing income tax returns ends at midnight March 15.

33,000,000 MORE CHICKENS IN STATE

Poultry Production Increased, Value Decreased, During Year 1922

The combined farm value of chickens raised and eggs produced in 1922 is estimated at $554,307,000, by the United States Department of Agriculture. The value in 1921 was $500,820,000.

About 543,000,000 chickens were raised on farms in 1922, with a farm value of $554,307,000 as compared with 510,000,000 chickens raised in 1921, valued at $362,255,000. Eggs production totaled 1,522,355,000 dozen eggs of a value of $500,008,000, as compared with 1,337,486,000 dozen eggs with a value of $538,567,000 in 1921.

Of the chicken eggs produced in 1922, large quantities were consumed in industries in the manufacture of other than food products, and about 113,000,000 dozen were used to produce chickens, the department says. The average farm price of chickens raised in 1922 was 65c per fowl, compared with 71c in 1921, and with 61.2c in 1920. The average farm price of chicken eggs was 25.5c a dozen in 1922, compared with 29.3c per dozen in 1921 and with 44.4c in 1920.

It is estimated that there were 412,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1922, a time of year when the number of chicks is low. There were 356,000,000 chickens on farms January 1, 1921, and on January 1, 1920, there were 260,000,000, according to census figures.

FEWER CHILDREN USED IN INDUSTRY

Child labor in Wisconsin is decreasing rapidly, according to a statement by the industrial commission.

"Stricter educational requirements is the reason, the commission said. The number of child labor permits issued during the year ended June 30, 1922, was only 6,079, compared with 16,009 in 1918. These figures include vacation and after-school permits.

The number of boys to whom permits are issued is decreasing faster than the number of girls. Relative decline in the number of regular permits is even greater than the inclusive figures of regular, vacation and after-school permits. Most of the permits are issued during June and September, when schools are closing for vacation, and reopening after vacation.

Birth certificates were offered as proof of age, as required by Wisconsin law in 90 per cent of the permit issuances.

ENEMIES AT VERDUN MEET IN RUHR RESTAURANT

Dusseldorf—A French captain, having lunch in a Dusseldorf restaurant the other day noted that his waiter walked with a pronounced limp.

"Where did you get hurt?" he asked.

"At Verdun, sir," replied the waiter proudly and unconsciously coming to attention. "I was before Verdun for two months. The captain became interested at once. A few more queries elicited the fact that the waiter, during seven days in March, 1916, had been in the German sector facing that held by the French captain's company. Trenches had completely disappeared and the men of both armies were hidden in shallow holes in some places less than ten yards apart. The waiter had taken part in a furious assault upon the captain's lines one day at dawn. The captain remembered that particular attack very well. Twenty-five per cent of his company had been killed, wounded or made prisoners.

"Let me get you some hot soup, sir," the waiter said, "this is growing cold. Those were great days," he said as he walked to the kitchen.

FURS AND MYSTERY

—By—
A. Carstensen
Appleton's Exclusive Furrier
STONE MARTEN

The Stone Marten substitutes are opossum and raccoon. Unfortunately, indeed, is the purchaser who pays the price for stone marten and is given a substitute, for genuine stone marten is one of the costliest and most durable of furs.

The skins must all be imported, either from Europe, Asia or India. Those coming from Turkey, Bosnia, Hungary and Greece being the most beautiful, while in Russia, Germany, Greece, Turkey and Asia Minor they are caught in greatest numbers.

Though resembling the common weasel in contour and action, they are brown in color and sometimes called the white-throated marten because of the marking on that portion of the animal.

Another species of this little carnivorous animal is the pine marten, a native of that part of North America wherein the pine trees grow over large areas, as it is in those trees that it obtains its chief source of food of birds' eggs and squirrels.

The color of the American Marten is also of a deep brown shade, almost black in some cases, though some specimens are quite light with yellowish, tinted throat and breast.

While ordinarily somewhat higher prices are paid for the darker shades, yet many people prefer the fur of the lighter hue; and it is but a matter of choice.

The handsome color and density of fur of the marten caught in the regions of the Hudson's Bay so closely resembles sable that it is often sold as Hudson Bay Sable, but you will find that the reliable furrier will advise you of this fact when you are shopping for fur apparel. adv.

Here's Winter Fuel At Only 35 Cents A Ton

Some farmers in the town of Grand Chute have found a way of cutting the high cost of living by reducing their demand for coal. A substitute has been found in cinders, which some farmers are hauling away from the pulp mills at Little Chute at 35 cents a load. It is said that the partially burnt coals are convenient for mixing with other coal for bunking a hot fire. It is expected that a rush for this new form of fuel will cause a jump in the cinder market presently.

TRAINED WORMS MAKE NEW FURNITURE OLD

By Associated Press
Paris—Trained worms instead of buckshot are now being used by certain manufacturers of antique furniture in order to give it the venerable aspect brought by age and decay in the real old product. The new departure in this industry is due to the ingenuity of a gardener living near Dijon. Noting that certain wood worms which had been killing his trees reproduced with rapidity, he has gone into the business of selling them to antique dealers. Before delivery he trains the worms to the work required, so that the furniture maker has only to turn them loose in a room empty save for the new furniture, and the hungry worms proceed to bore holes in the surface of the wood. When the furniture has the number of holes necessary, the worms are coaxed out of the wood and turned loose on more new furniture.

This holed appearance was formerly obtained by firing buckshot into the furniture and then gouging out the shot.

VACCINATION IS 2,000 YEARS OLD

"Vaccination is an outgrowth of man's effort to protect himself from pestilence by using nature's methods of defense," says Dr. G. W. McCoy, director of the Hygienic Laboratory of the U. S. Public Health Service. "Primitive man noticed that recovery from a first attack by most diseases gave immunity against other attacks; and some 2,000 years ago he began to inoculate his fellows with smallpox where conditions seemed propitious instead of waiting for nature to do it at some time when conditions might be very unpropitious."

"Inoculations against smallpox were made in India and in China as early as 300 B. C. Later, when the disease reached Europe, inoculation went with it, supplemented by a new method called 'selling smallpox'—exposing a well person to contact with one ill with the disease so that if he survived he would be proof against it.

"Inoculation differs somewhat from vaccination as devised by Jenner, but the principle is the same. Moreover, long before Jenner's day it was known that an attack of cowpox gave immunity from smallpox; and records show that men who had recovered from cowpox had themselves inoculated with smallpox to make the proof conclusive. Jenner, however, as he himself says, 'placed vaccination on a rock' where he knew it would be immovable."

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction, often at a very rapid rate, and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms with frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overweightness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of your superfluous fat. The medicinal ingredients I employ do not depend for their reducing power upon starvation diet or tiresome exercise. Taking them, they should produce a loss of weight without you doing anything else.

If you are over stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT, and my plan where by I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

THE NATIONAL GUARD AND THE NATION

The national guard is nothing more than the militia of the constitution. Article I, Section 8, subdivision 16 of that instrument provides that congress shall prescribe rules and regulations for organizing and disciplining the militia of the United States, leaving to the several states the appointment of officers and the authority to train the troops in the discipline prescribed by congress.

Congress passed an act in 1794 making such provision, which remained the law of the nation until the national defense act of 1916, with very few modifications during that time. These men were nothing more than the state soldiers under the command of the governors of the several states, and could be called out by the president as such, but could not be taken by him beyond the borders of the country. In the war of 1812 the New York militia refused to cross the river into Canada, leaving the regulars and volunteers to be defeated by the British. From that time on the militia was sworn in as United States volunteers in order to overcome that objection. In all the large Indian uprisings and all the large wars of the nation since its establishment, these militia state troops went into the federal service as United States volunteers.

The first mustered militia was the annual assembling of all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 for one day for muster. Each was required to provide himself with a uniform, flint lock musket, powder horn, bullets and several other minor articles. As time advanced the several states made provision for weekly encampments, yet the men provided their own uniforms, their own armory rent, and the state government furnished only the arms. A few years before the war with Spain, the state of Wisconsin began to pay for armory rent and has continued to do so ever since. Since that war the state also furnished the uniforms and equipment, until 1916, when congress passed the national defense act. Now the United States government furnishes uniforms and all equipment, the state taking care of only the armory rent and the cost of encampment and administration affairs. The war department now pays all the salary of officers and enlisted men.

In 1921 congress reduced the regular army to 125,000 men, which throws the defense of the nation upon the national guard or militia, and provided that each state should raise 800 men for every congressman and United States senator in that state. Wisconsin's quota is 10,500. If the state fails to take care of its portion of the expense for maintaining that number, congress or the war department will, of course, disband the national guard already organized in this state, leaving the state without protection.

The present national organization places Wisconsin and Michigan in the 6th Division, and there is no heavy artillery in that division except Battery "E" of Green Bay and Battery "A" of Milwaukee, while the division should have a full regiment. If the troops were called out tomorrow it would be necessary to have heavy artillery taken from the regular army and placed with this division, but there is no heavy artillery in the regular army available. It can, therefore, readily be seen that this is not a state affair but a national matter, and the legislature of Wisconsin is simply and openly attempting to nullify the acts of congress with reference to national defense. It is simply one state defying the rest of the Union, about as near as you can approach to open rebellion without being guilty of treason.

Those in the legislature who make statements that the national guard is nothing more than a sort of a state police surely have an utter lack of knowledge of this great national organization, and its relation to the national defense.

The federal government has made requirements of the several states to do certain things, and it may become the duty of that government to determine whether the national government is supreme on the question of national defense, or whether any state, even by its legislature and governor, can nullify the acts of congress by refusing to obey the law.

THE PARTY ORGAN

The advantages of participation in a world court are undeniable. Such a tribunal has been an American idea, advocated by the Republican party, for many years. President Harding, in his speech of acceptance dwelt favorably on the idea of the nations "cooperating in sublime accord, to attain peace through justice rather than force, determined to add to security through international law so clarified that no misconstruction can be possible without affronting world honor."

The above is from the Milwaukee Sentinel. It is a part of its comment on the request of President Harding that the senate approve American participation in the international court of justice. The Sentinel's eulogy on the court is one of those miraculous restorations of sight that carry us back to biblical times. Twenty-four hours before the president's message appeared the Sentinel would have burst a blood vessel had it attempted to say a word in favor of the court or the League of Nations, of which the court is a part. For the last four years this tribunal has been on a par with the average police force in the opinion of partisan organs like the Sentinel. They have ridiculed the whole League program for the sole reason that politicians who run the Republican party decreed that this should be done.

When the president is forced by the culmination of circumstances to take a first step into the League by becoming a member of the court of arbitration, the Sentinel discovers over night what a grand and glorious institution it is. It is this kind of partisanship and spinelessness that makes party organs ridiculous. It is little wonder that intelligent citizens lose confidence in them and read their party effusions with a smile.

CONGRESS AND THE SUPREME COURT

Federal Judge Kenyon and Former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge stand out among well known public men who have begun to oppose the movement, lately originated in congress, to curtail the legitimate power of the United States supreme court. The sound, sane position which they take is sure to be sustained by the people.

The administrative, legislative and judicial departments of the government are organized to function as nearly independently as possible. They are distinct branches of government, each having special and characteristic powers and responsibilities, and practically it would not be feasible for any one to assume the prerogatives of the others.

Congress has more than it can do in attending to its business of legislation, and it has proved in many instances to be strangely susceptible to pressure. The strictest ethics of the courts, especially of the supreme court, is that judges shall be bound simply and solely to conscientious interpretation of law.

Criticism of the supreme court is largely manifestation of dissatisfaction with decisions. The court has not considered whether its rulings would please or not, but has tried to do what it honestly believes to be right. Is there reason enough therein to make the court subject to congress? On the contrary, is it not the most convincing evidence that the independence of the court should be preserved?

BREATHING DUST

The inhalation of dust more or less constantly over a period of years, as in certain trades or occupations causes a kind of hardening of lung tissues with thickening of the walls of the air cells and a chronic bronchitis, the condition being known as pneumonokiosis which is medical Greek for dusty lung. If the dust is coal dust, the condition is called anthracosis; if it iron or other metallic dust, siderosis; mineral dusts cause chalicosis, and so on.

Coal miners are strikingly free from tuberculosis, notwithstanding their exposure to coal dust and the lack of sunlight in their work, yet the miner's lungs are invariably black from coal dust after several years of work. Tuberculosis of the lung is less frequent in miners than in members of their families. Indeed, exposure to coal dust has been seriously advised as a treatment for incipient or at the beginning of tuberculosis.

Pneumonokiosis is seldom diagnosed. Persons who have it usually assume they have chronic bronchitis, asthma, pleurisy, or tuberculosis; the doctor with a very large number of patients is not likely to insist on careful examination when patients tell him what is the matter instead of telling him of what they are complaining. This is not so serious a matter as it seems when the dusty lung is assumed to be tuberculosis.

Another dust which seems not only harmless to the lungs, but possibly an actual preventive against tuberculosis is lime dust. For instance, among 400 employees in a gypsum factory, there was no death from tuberculosis in 17 years. Physicians have advised patients in the early stage of tuberculosis to live or work about lime kilns; in many cases the result of such exposure to lime dust is apparently good.

Dusty particles having sharp or irregular surfaces are naturally most irritating and injurious to the air passages and lungs. Stone dust is probably the worst of all. Stone cutters are 15 times more susceptible to tuberculosis than men engaged in dustless trades.

Dr. E. R. Hayhurst, from a survey of industrial health hazards in Ohio lists the various dusts in the following order, the least injurious first:

1. Dust arising from the natural earth, such as that to which we are all exposed.
2. Flour and starch dust.
3. Talc and soapstone dust.
4. Wood dust.
5. Bran dust.
6. Coal dust.
7. Ore dust.
8. Mineral dust.
10. Stone dust.

Lead, arsenic and mercury are the chief mineral dusts. Workers in numerous trades and industries are exposed to these poisonous dusts.

Lime, cement and hair workers suffer from chronic inflammation of the eyes and throat. The dust of mussel shells (pearl button manufacture) according to some physicians, causes inflammation in the bone marrow of young persons. The dust in the textile industries, such as the carding, roving, spinning and winding of cotton, and the heckling of linen, causes a chronic bronchitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Druggist's Advice Confirmed

You recommended using citrate of soda in a solution for dressing boils. I tried several druggists who said they would not sell it, as it is a deadly poison.—G. L.

Answer—Either the druggists misunderstood what you asked for or they were a singularly uninformed lot. Citrate of soda is really less "poisonous" than Epsom salts; the worst effect it can produce is purgation, if taken internally in considerable doses. Citrate of soda was formerly used as a alkali in modifying milk for infant feeding; fine water, mill, or magenta, or perhaps a cereal water is generally preferred today. So you see it can't be so very "deadly." Notwithstanding the peculiar notions of your druggists, thousands of persons are taking citrate of soda as a home remedy for acute "coughs and colds" and expressing themselves as pleased with the results.

THE CITY MANAGER

CITY MANAGER AND BUSINESS METHODS

By Frederic J. Haskin

Petersburg, Va.—This city has before it for 1923, a program of improvements which includes a bridge across the Appomattox River, the erection of a junior high school and two grade schools, the paving of two of the principal streets and much other public work. This will cost a little more than a million dollars, of which the city will pay seven or eight hundred thousand and interested railway companies the balance.

No one can find in Petersburg the slightest expression of doubt that the money will be economically expended. No one can find any one who will say that he believes there will be favoritism in the letting of contracts or the purchase of supplies. Everybody takes it for granted, now, that the affairs of the city will be conducted upon sound business lines.

The first thing the city manager did when he took office was to employ an accounting firm to set up a modern system of accounting for the city's use—something that was very much needed. Then a central purchasing office was established, through which all city purchases must be made.

Under the old system any city employee purchased where he would like, at what price he did not care, and the price was made large enough to reimburse the merchant for the two or three months he would be out of the use of his money, for the city never paid promptly and could not do so under its complicated system or requiring each bill to be separately approved by two branches of the council.

Under the new system, purchases are made in advance in quantity lots, and always after competition. Bills are paid promptly to take advantage of cash discounts. There is a complete check on every purchase, and the moment there is a charge over the market price the city manager himself must have an explanation.

The next thing done was to place the city strictly on a budget basis. The annual budget is prepared by the city manager and submitted to the council about six weeks before the end of the fiscal year. After the council has made its decisions with respect to it, a great town meeting is called at the high school auditorium. There the president of the council tells the people what the council has done, and the city manager explains in detail the budget for the coming year. After this town meeting the budget is formally adopted.

BUDGET FOLLOWED FAITHFULLY

Thus the program for the city is laid out before the people a year in advance, and the municipal activities follow the budget faithfully. The permanent improvement program was discussed publicly for many weeks, and then, after being formally approved by the chamber of commerce and practically every other organization in the city, was adopted. No voice was raised in opposition, except with respect to minor details.

As was said in the beginning, the only reason for selecting Petersburg as an example of the city manager form of government is that the city manager here, Louis Brownlow, is now the president of the City Managers' Association. The association has its headquarters at Lawrence, Kansas, where it publishes a monthly magazine edited by the association secretary, John G. Stutz. The association counts as members most of the 300 city and town managers in the United States, and has some city manager members in Canada and in New Zealand.

"The number of cities adopting the city manager plan last year was greater than ever before, the total increasing about 20 per cent, during 1922," said Mr. Brownlow. "Less than a dozen cities that have had city managers have gone back to the old form of government, and so far as I know, only twice has this reversion taken place in a city where the plan was formally adopted by the vote of the people."

"Virginia, where the plan originated, leads the country in the proportion of cities adopting the new system only three Virginia cities now having another form of government."

"Michigan actually leads the country with 34 city manager cities and towns. California, Texas and Virginia are next with 23 each. Florida has 17 and Ohio 16—so you can see it is growing without regard to geographical sections."

"The largest city now under the city manager form of government is Akron, Ohio, with a population of 208,000."

CLEVELAND ADOPTS NEW SYSTEM

"The first test of how the new plan will work in a very large city will be afforded in Cleveland. The Ohio metropolis has voted to adopt the new system, which will become effective there at the beginning of 1924. Since Cleveland has almost a million people, the system there will be tried on a large scale."

"My belief is that the city manager form offers the people a means of controlling their government in their own interest without the artificial interference of political machines. It abolishes the partisan election, making the choice of municipal legislators depend upon the signs of the candidate with regard to municipal issues. It wipes out ward lines, substituting city-wide interests and city-wide loyalties, for neighborhood interests and sectional loyalties. It relieves the busy man who would delight to serve his city from all administrative duties and the petty annoyances of patronage and enables him to accept office in a legislative capacity in the council. It brings to the actual administration of municipal trained executives who have no other interest at heart than the service of the city."

"The results it will accomplish will vary in every city, just as the wishes and the will of the people vary. It will respond to the will of the people and will do what they want done, without waste and without delay. For that reason I believe it will continue to spread, and that eventually it will form the basis of a standard American method of municipal administration."

At Alto Cruero, Bolivia, water freezes every night in the year, while at noon the sun sometimes is hot enough to raise blisters on the skin.

A machine, intended to be used by those engaged in forcing the growth of flowers and vegetables, has been invented, which measures the growth of plants.

Q. How did the expression "scot free" originate? V. O.

A. Scot means a tax, contribution or fine. Scot free is a natural combination of words conveying the idea of being free without payment of fine.

Q. Can the right of habeas corpus be denied in this country? F. A. A.

A. The Constitution declares that the "privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless, when in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it." During the Civil War the President authorized General Scott to suspend the privilege when in his judgment it seemed necessary to do so, but Chief Justice Taney, who had issued a writ which the General refused to obey, uttered the opinion that the power of suspension rested solely in Congress. Judicial and professional opinion appears to concur in this view, but on March 3, 1863, Congress authorized the President to suspend the writ, and this delegated power was exercised not only by Lincoln during the war, but by Grant during the reconstruction period in 1871.

Q. How does the tonnage of freight at Sault Ste. Marie compare with that of the Panama Canal? J. J. H.

A. The gross tonnage passing through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal in 1920 was 73,282,496. During the same period, the number of tons cargo that passed through the Canal was 9,774,489.

Q. How much oil and whalebone does a single whale yield? P. C. R.

A. The Greenland or bowhead whale may yield as much as 275 barrels of oil and 3,000 pounds of whalebone.

Q. Where was the first statue of McKinley erected? A. D.

A. Charles Henry Hackley, who made many large gifts to the city of Muskegon, Michigan, erected a statue of McKinley there in 1901, that was the first statue of the late President to be unveiled.

Q. Is Atlantic City on an island or on the mainland? McM.

A. Atlantic City, New Jersey, was first settled in 1854 on the site of a fishing settlement dating from 1780. It is built on a long sandy island known as Absecon Beach, which stretches along the coast for 10 miles. It has an average width of 3/4 of a mile and is 4 to 5 miles from the mainland.

Q. How does the size of Texas compare with England and Wales? E. R. A.

A. The area of Texas is 170,173,440; that of England and Wales, 37,327,476.

N the spring of 1892 the Twentieth Kansas Volunteers under Colonel Funston were fighting their way into Manila, the insurrecto capital in the Philippines.

They had had hard fighting and expected more of it. Major Whitman and I were walking along by a shallow trench when we overheard some of the boys talking. They were in rather a solemn mood, expecting a bitter struggle.

One of them, the son of a Civil War veteran, finally remarked:

"Well, I don't care so much for this kind of life. My dad was in the Civil War and he knew all about this business. I guess it would have been better if he had come and I had stayed home."

Concert By Bauer Will Spur Pupils

Noted Pianist Coming Here Urges Young To Play Whenever Possible

Many music teachers in the city are suggesting to their pupils that they make every effort to hear Harold Bauer master pianist, when he presents his program at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Tuesday evening. Mr. Bauer will present the last musical program of the Community Lecture and Artists series for this season.

"Young Americans are inclined to think that a modest beginning will stand in the way of their progress," said Mr. Bauer in a recent interview. "If they sing in a moving picture show or play in vaudeville, they think they will blast their chances of virtuosity. I have found that genius, like murder, will out. My advice is to play or sing when and wherever you can. The experience can never hurt you and you can always do your best, no matter who the audience may be."

Mr. Bauer has made a great study of his audience and likes giving them the sort of music they prefer. He says that in large cities he has to make his own choice, but in places to which he returns year after year, he likes to have people suggest numbers for his program. There are many good seats for this number. Several mail orders have come from Fond du Lac and Green Bay for seats. Mr. Bauer does not have a concert anywhere in this vicinity this year.

Seats may be obtained from the office of George H. Beckley, Insurance bldg., who is manager of the course.

Two Societies Are United By Vote Of Women

The society has assumed the responsibility of raising $1,100 for the church budget and also made plans to raise a fund for remodeling the dining room and kitchen in the church.

Mrs. J. S. Reeve had charge of the program. Dr. Peabody talked on current events. Mrs. John Wilson presented a question on the missionary papers and Mrs. H. H. Cole led the devotional services. Special music was furnished by Mrs. F. P. Dehearty.

Will Give Chalk Talk To Children

Miss Margaret Gardner Of Chicago Will Help Clubs With Art Work

Through the combined efforts of Appleton Womans club and the Neenah Young Womans club, Miss Margaret Gardner of the Chicago Art Institute will be at Appleton theatre on Saturday, March 10, to give a chalk talk program especially for the children. The recreation department of the club has made arrangements to put on its program in the theatre at a Saturday afternoon event especially for children.

Miss Gardner will divide her time between the Appleton and Neenah clubs, where she will teach members to make the famous batik decorations. The building committee division of which Mrs. John Keller is chairman will have charge of the Appleton classes, which will work on materials to be sold at the Womans club bazaar. Miss Gardner is a batik expert and will work with classes of ten for several days in Appleton.

Although the artist has several programs of chalk talks, some for grownups and some for children, it was decided to use only the children's program and to make her talk the first of the series of children's programs which Appleton Womans club will provide for the amusement of the children. Miss Gardner will illustrate for the youngsters such stories as "Sneen" Things at Night," "How the Elephant Got His Trunk" and many others. She has been most successful with her children's programs and it is expected that many Appleton mothers will be delighted to know Appleton Womans club, through its own workshop, has turned its attention to the great need for wholesome programs for the children.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

There is hardly a neighborhood in the United States where women cannot be found who have derived benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this botanic medicine has been overcoming some of the worst forms of female ills. As one woman has been benefited by its use she has told others who have used it with the same good results, so the use of this great medicine has spread from shore to shore by the recommendation of those who have found it good. Therefore ask your neighbor: let her tell you from experience, the benefit which ailing women derive from its use.

ARCHITECTS KICK ON SCHOOL FLOORS

Contractor Forced To Tear Up
Flooring In New Building

Kaukauna—A meeting of the board of education was held Monday evening in the council rooms. A. Parkinson of Parkinson and Dockendorf, architects of Black Creek, was present to protest the manner in which the floors are being laid. The company which contracted with Hayes and Langdon to lay the floors induced the board to sanction a floor with 12-foot panels whereas the specifications require 2-foot panels. However, the board can make no changes without the consent of the architect and Mr. Parkinson had previously refused to consider the request coming directly from the sub-contracting company. The entire floor in the upper corridor had been laid in 12 foot panels and the task of tearing it up began Tuesday morning. The floor will be relaid according to specifications. It will delay the completion of the floor more than a week. Other matters of routine business were taken up at the meeting.

BLAMES TRIFLES FOR DIVORCE WAVE

Dr. Eli J. Forsythe Uses Clinic
Method In Handling Domestic Troubles

Detroit—Dr. Eli J. Forsythe is author of the "clinic method" of dealing with domestic troubles. Judge Samuels of Oakland, Cal., attributes most divorces to "love piracy," an offense for which he advocates the penitentiary. Judge Hurley of Chicago has tried the injunction as a weapon against the same evil.

Dr. Forsythe says: "Ninety per cent of domestic tragedies start with trifles."

He holds his "clinics" at Detroit's fashionable Fort Street Congregational Church, of which he is pastor. Unhappy couples have their hearts to him and in hundreds of cases his surgical skill has found the cause of trouble which otherwise would have led to the divorce court, and complete cures have been effected.

"The husband," says the doctor, "who leaves cigar butt on the dining-room table may start a series of disputes ending in separation."

"One Detroit woman who attended a 'clinic' complained that her husband spent his spare time playing poker. He came at my request and said, 'My wife nagged me so for leaving shaving lather in the wash-bowl that I took to poker to get away from it.' 'Why leave it there?' I asked. He answered that he forgot, because he was thinking. Then he explained that he was maturing an invention which occupied his mind constantly. I talked to his wife, who became more patient, while he grew less forgetful. Later he invented a machine which made them rich."

"Another man, a mechanic, quarreled with his wife because she served meals on a perfectly ordered table when he wanted to eat in the kitchen. On account of this small quarrel they had separated. A short talk satisfied the husband that his wife simply was trying to improve their home standard."

"A third husband was jealous of the affection his wife lavished on a cat. I saw the trouble—a childless home. I induced them to adopt a baby and they became very happy."

"Another wife reproved her husband for quarrelling with his business partner and he slapped her face. They left one another. I convinced the husband that he was wrong and the wife that, after all, her husband's business was his own province. They were speedily reconciled."

"Such troubles generally can be settled, but only by the right outsider. It is hard for men and women to analyze themselves, but not as difficult for another, versed in human nature, to do so."

Kaukauna—A hearing before the railroad rate commission involving a dispute between Wrightstown and the Chicago Northwestern Railway Co. was held Tuesday afternoon in the new council rooms in the municipal building. Do You Know That

According to authoritative information the United States consumed or used 25% more sugar in 1922 than ever before.

We produce in the United States and our possessions about one quarter of the sugar we use.

That the other three quarters of the sugar we use is imported from foreign countries.

Foreign sugars are taxed by tariff to protect farmers and manufacturers. The United States could increase its production of beet sugar three times and still have a fair price for sugar.

If we grew three times the quantity of any other cash crop than sugar beets we would not be able to profitably dispose of the entire crop for cash.

SAVE FORESTS IS BAKER'S PLEA TO ROTARIANS HERE

Secretary Of Paper Men's Association Deplores Waste Of Wood

In an address before the Rotary club at its monthly luncheon at Conway hotel Tuesday, Dr. Hugh P. Baker of New York, executive secretary of the American Paper and Pulp Association, and for eight years dean of the New York state college of Forestry at Syracuse, called attention of members to the necessity of Wisconsin preserving its forests.

"We have forested so rapidly," he said, "that within the last 70 years we have cut 70 per cent of the standing timber in the United States. We have only 30 per cent left. In this last 50 per cent we cut 98 per cent of the original white pine."

"You can go into the lumber yards of Chicago and Milwaukee and you can buy mahogany cheaper than you can buy white pine, and yet we are on the edge of the great white pine district in the United States."

"We are going to use more wood rather than less. We are not going to use steel and concrete railroad ties; we are going to use beech and maple and soft woods; they are going to be treated with creosote."

"I represent the wood products industry. Of the 7,000,000 tons of paper produced in this country annually more than 90 per cent is made wholly or in part from wood. One-fourth of the wood is converted into paper and one-seventh into lumber."

"One thing you have got to do is to protect your forests from fire. Fire has destroyed more timber than we have used. Over seven and one-half million acres of land burn annually in this country, more than twice the area we use for lumber and other purposes."

"The burning of the standing tree is the smallest injury of any fire. What is the damage, then? The fire wipes out the forest floor, that leafy covering under the trees, and it is that forest floor that puts fertility in the soil. I have seen places in Europe where they use forests in rotation for agriculture."

"Now, it is just as easy to protect the forests from fire as it is to protect your buildings. We have somebody there to see when the fire begins and we require something with which to fight the fire."

"When I was a boy in northwest Wisconsin 35 years ago I saw a great deal of game and fish and you cannot have these unless you have forests. I think I have seen as much as most men in this country, and I have seen more game in the forests of Europe than I have seen in this country."

"We need recreation place. When I get sick and discouraged I like to go into the woods and forget my difficulties and annoyances. The forest is a playground, a place of recreation and recreation. I believe we are going to do more to develop the forests."

"We must have lumber and wood that goes into our industries. We want more fish and game, and I want to see the boys of this country hunt and fish more. We need the forests as a recreation place. The automobile has made the woods accessible. I go hunting and fishing in northern Wisconsin, and every time I go up there I see more people. The last time I was up there I said Wisconsin has not awakened to the fact that it can be the playground of the whole Mississippi valley. You have just scratched the surface in bringing people up from the Mississippi Valley in the summer time."

"WASTING FORESTS. When our fathers came down the shores of the Atlantic, they found the finest forests anyone had ever seen, filled with animals and redmen. They found it hard to make a living and got rid of the forests as rapidly as possible."

"Down through the years we have been using the forests and wasting them. In clearing the land settlers piled up the beech, oak and birch and set fire to it. There was no market for it."

"Now, Wisconsin was a great forest state at one time. It was not so very long ago, 15 or 18 years, Wisconsin led all states in lumber. It has now dropped to fifteenth or eighteenth on the list."

"I have seen the forests on the other side. I have been in Sweden and Finland each of which have fine forests. I have been in Germany and seen the forests there, but no country was ever blessed as this country with forests. Some day the history of our forests is going to be written."

"INDIRECT RETURNS. The direct returns of our forests are the returns in which we are tremendously interested because our industries are dependent upon them. But there are indirect returns. If we do not have forests we are not going to have satisfactory water for use."

"I live in New York, but I would rather live in Wisconsin. It takes a lot of water to supply us. Just at present engineers are planning to reach up into the Adirondacks for a supply. I have seen the forests hold snow until June, while flowers blossomed in the sun."

"We spent a big sum of money on the Erie canal. We are just a little worried whether we will have enough water to operate the boats unless the State of New York gets back its supply of water. I was down in southern Ohio and there they are spending large sums of money to prevent the occurrence of floods."

"You can build your reservoirs, but reservoirs alone won't do. It is time our statesmen spent money in putting the forests back at the head of streams."

"One year I made a study of the report of the state comptroller to see how New York was spending its funds. Do you know how your legislature at Madison is spending your money? I

Romance Of Rural Area In 20 Years' Service By Four Mail Carriers

Veterans In Service Have Braved All Kinds Of Weather—Have Seen Farming Community Change Its People And Ways

How would you like to travel every weekday, rain or shine, sleet or snow, over the same route of nearly 30 miles for a period of 20 years?

Would it not be the least little bit monotonous, and would you not have to be a man of steady habits, of cheerful disposition and of enduring timber to meet such conditions?

This has been the experience of at least four of the seven rural carriers operating from the Appleton postoffice, Joseph Tennie, Route 1; John Freude, Route 2; Frank O. Letts, Route 4; Robert Rohm, Route 5. All have completed approximately 20 years of rural free delivery service.

Still their long service has not been all monotony, but each day furnished them with some new experience, with pleasant breaks in the routine, and with other changed conditions. Rural mail patrons have given up their boxes to their sons and daughters and are now in the city receiving mail from the homestead, through the same carrier. Farmers have flourished through the application of modern farming methods. Farmers now depend upon the automobiles and telephones besides the mail routes as means of communication.

In the pre-F. D. days, the advent of the stage coach with the settlement mail was a chief attraction. The star route brought about the next stage in the evolution of the rural mail carrier, until now the "traveling postoffice" is being looked upon as a permanent fixture. Locomotion by sled and cutter in the summer and by sleet and cutter in the winter is not expected to meet with rivalry from the motorcycle or airplane.

Carrying mail once looked to some like a lazy man's job. Yet even in the old days there was work aplenty and the salary allowed was but a few hundred dollars, requiring the carrier to pay for his own horse upkeep.

It appears that Uncle Sam is quite punctilious about his servants, and the fact that they are too seem to demand that they be consulted in the selection of carriers, for they place much confidence in them. Dennis labored under a hallucination when he said to the new postmaster, "Faith sor, ye know my boy ain't bright but, and I wish ye'd make him rural carrier, for 'tis all he's good for."

"KNOW WHAT'S OCCURRING. The rural carrier occupies a very peculiar position. He is the depository of many confidences. He becomes a bearer of news that often escapes the newspaper. He can tell from the mail he carries, although he often pretends to be innocent, which country belle has a beau. He knows who are "Shirley & Sawdust's" best customers. He knows the drift of a man's politics, the bulk of his business and the extent of his education from the papers and magazines he brings him. Yes sometimes, when the carrier receives a new patron, he remains for days in ignorance of the sex of one J. H. Nameholder who turns out to be Miss Jennie.

Under ordinary conditions, one is quite certain to find the carriers smiling, but when they sit cramped up in a cutter for hours in sub-zero weather, and that the approaches to mail boxes are snowed in and are, as in the present case, compelled to detour over ditches and rough fields to avoid drifts in roads, it is possible that even they develop a temporary grouch.

Among the unexplainable difficulties is to find a man at his box complaining that the mail is late and then strike the next patron asking for a little time to finish a letter because the mail is a half hour ahead of time.

"USELESS COMPLAINT. It sometimes happens that the carrier narrowly misses being reported to the postmaster because on two successive days he fails to collect a letter that bears no address. The predicament becomes more delicate, when the young woman, hastening to correct her omission, says, "You needn't look to see who I'm writing to."

The carrier is not without friends and sympathizers by any means. Some patrons make use of the first opportunity to shovel out the approach to the box and plow out small drifts on the road. They take pains to stamp their first class mail and keep a supply of stamps on hand for that purpose, instead of putting the pennies into the mail box. Rural carriers swear eternal friendship for the person, who, on a severe winter day, invites them to a cup of hot coffee.

Carrying mail is not without its amusing incidents. There was in one case a farmer who received a little mail off and on—mostly off. The blinges of his mail box were in danger of rusting shut, when a bird, unable to find a more secure spot, built a nest and laid an egg within the box. A young miss was once almost frightened to death when the carrier, reaching into the pouch for her mail, pulled out a live mouse which seemed to be looking for a nice home by scanning the addresses of the farmers receiving the most mail. One carrier on whose route there is a roadhouse often meets on his way to work mornings some straggling found that particular year more than one-third of the funds appropriated were being spent by penal and charitable institutions.

Dr. Baker suggested the changing of the tax laws of Wisconsin in such a way as to benefit the forests. He suggested also that greater pressure be brought to bear on lumbermen and users of wood for the preservation of the forests.

MUCH MORE MAIL

One of the objects of interest to the veteran carrier is the increased volume of mail he delivers. Twenty years ago the bulk of the delivery was first class mail—letters and postal cards. There was no system of parcel post. Small packages up to a limit of four pounds were sent by fourth class mail, but the prohibitive rate of one cent an ounce gave the bulk of the business to the express companies.

In those days farmers were not accustomed to take daily papers, and read little more than their weeklies and the farm magazines. Now nearly every farmer reads a daily and sometimes two or even three. Where one carrier then delivered but 12 Posts and Crescents to his customers, he now takes 10 times that many to the same number of persons. German papers have been dropped off considerably. When the telephones were installed and when automobiles were bought, it was thought there would be a great decrease in first class mail. But it still keeps on coming at the same rate.

The carrier's vehicle has been termed the "traveling postoffice." That expression is justified when one considers the collection and delivery of all classes of mail; the sale of stamps; making out of money orders; the receiving of postal savings and orders for United States treasury saving certificates; the stopping for special delivery letters, insured parcels and C. O. D. mail.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

Shows How to Locate and Correct any Automobile Engine Trouble

By E. H. SCOTT

This is the third of a series of specially prepared and illustrated articles showing the ordinary automobile driver how to locate any engine trouble.

When the Engine Will Not Start

Ignition Troubles

1. Take a Spark Plug out of a cylinder, then open up the gap to TWICE the distance of the present gap. Now attach the wire to the Plug terminal again, then lay it on top of the cylinder in such a position that when you turn the engine over, you can see the Plug Points. Make sure that the terminal with the wire attached DOES NOT touch the cylinder. Now turn the engine over smartly a few times while watching the points of the plug then—

If NO SPARK appears at the points of the Plug, or a spark only now and again, see that the Ignition Switch is ON, then proceed as shown in the illustration.

- 1st. Remove the wire leading from the center of the Distributor Head to the Coil.
- 2nd. Take off the Distributor Head by unsnapping the two small clips at the side.
- 3rd. Take off the Distributor Arm.

4. Make quite sure the Breaker Points are together. If they are open, turn the engine over by hand crank until you see the points CLOSE, then hold the end of the wire you removed from the Distributor Head about 1/4" away from any metal part. Now with the point of the finger, open and close points while watching the end of the wire.

If NO SPARK appears at end of wire each time you open points, see A. If a spark Appears each time you open points, see B.

A

1. Turn on the lights and observe their appearance. If they are DULL, then examine the Battery connections. If connections are all right, have Battery re-charged. If, however, the lights are BRIGHT then—
2. Trace wire from Battery to Ignition Switch. See particularly that the connections at the back of the Switch are TIGHT, and that the wire has not rubbed through its covering or insulation at any point. If it is all right then—
3. Trace wire leading from the Ignition Switch to the Coil, making sure that it has not rubbed through at any point. If it looks all right then—
4. Examine the connections and wires leading from the Coil to the Contact Breaker and Distributor, to see that they are all connected and are TIGHT. If above are all SEEMINGLY correct then—
5. Test to see if either the Ignition Switch or the wires leading to the Battery are not internally defective. To do this, take a piece of insulated wire about 8 feet long, and connect one end to the terminal on the Battery which has attached to it the wire that leads to the Ignition Switch, and connect the other end of the wire to the terminal on the Coil which has attached to it the wire that leads through the Switch. NOW test to see if there is a spark. If there IS, and the engine now starts, have the Ignition Switch and wiring examined by an expert Ignition man. If, however, there is STILL no spark, see B.

B

1. Examine the Distributor Head to see that it is not wet or damp, and look carefully to see that there are no cracks or burnt hair like lines in it. If there are, fit a new Head. If the Distributor has flat metal segments, see that they are clean and bright. Use a little fine sand paper on the track if the segments are pitted or black looking. If, however, the Distributor is all right then—
2. Examine the Distributor Arm to see that it is not cracked where it fits in the shaft, and that the Contact has sprung enough to make connection with the Carbon Contact in the center of the Distributor Head. If it is all right then—
3. Examine the Breaker Points. If they have a grey, frosty appearance, and come together squarely when points are CLOSED, DO NOT touch them. If the points are black looking and badly pitted, they will require dressing up. As they are generally made from tungsten metal which is too hard to file, they must be dressed up on an oil stone. The contact faces must be EXACTLY parallel. It is a delicate operation and it is better for the average man to have this job done by an expert Ignition man. Now—
4. Test the Gap between the points to see that it is correct. Consult the Instruction Book you got with car, if possible, to see what the EXACT gap should be. It varies a trifle, but is generally just about the thickness of an ordinary business card. Turn the engine over until the Cam on the Distributor shaft holds the points open at their WIDEST GAP. To adjust, loosen the lock nut on the FIXED contact screw, then by turning the screw in or out, get the correct gap. After adjusting the gap, tighten the lock nut, then check the gap again to see that it is correct AFTER THE LOCK NUT IS TIGHTENED UP. Now—
5. With the Breaker points in the CLOSED position, test the tension of the spring on the movable Arm with the point of the finger, seeing that it is not loose, broken or rusted, and is strong enough to snap the points into FIRM contact. If it appears to be sluggish in action, and the Arm fits into a bushing, it may have swollen, making the shaft too tight to move freely. Very often with this trouble, the points stay open ALL the time. If, however, the Arm works quite freely then—
6. If when testing the Ignition by opening and closing the Breaker Points, you notice a very BRIGHT spark at the Breaker Points, but a VERY THIN spark or no spark at all at the end of the wire you are holding near metal part, your Condenser has broken down and will require expert attention. In any case, if after examining and adjusting as shown, there is still no difference in the Ignition, have it gone over by an expert Ignition man, as the fault is an internal one requiring his skill to remedy.

England Opens Doors To German Waiters

By Associated Press

Berlin — "After the beginning of the new year I shall not be serving you any longer. I am going back to try and get my old position in England."

A servile German waiter in one of Berlin's better class restaurants was overheard making the above remark in English to an American diner. Asked why he had delayed so long after the war in seeking reemployment abroad, the waiter explained that only on Dec. 23 had the English government lifted its postwar ban on German arrivals.

For this man, and doubtless hundreds of others in his calling here, that date had stood out long as a red letter day on his calendar. He has been working for months and supporting his family, with no other remuneration from the restaurant than the 400 per cent tip legally prescribed for waiters in Germany, together with such added gratuities as benevolent guests were inclined to give.

It is estimated that there are abroad now only one-sixth of the German and Austrian cooks and waiters who were in foreign employ before the war. When hostilities broke out many dropped their knives and forks in order lands to come home and pick up a rifle; others were deported or interned in Germany, and others, otherwise, became a part of the military forces.

In 1914 there were some 3,000 German and Austrian cooks in foreign countries, and 18,000 waiters. Today there are from 500 to 1,000 cooks and about three times that many waiters. The latter figures do not include a large number of Germans who remained in the United States throughout the war.

Chicago is cited here as having hitherto been the most popular single point of attraction in the outside world. In that city alone, before the war, the German and Austrian cooks numbered 300 and the waiters no less than 1,000.

FRANCE HAS COPIOUS SUPPLY OF LIQUOR

Paris—The amount of wine produced in France in 1922 exceeded that of 1921 by more than fifty per cent, according to the official figures published recently. The 1922 crop produced 1,513,500,000 gallons of wine, as compared with 920,000,000 in 1921. In addition to the French vintage, Algeria produced during the past season, 163,000,000 gallons of wine, and taking into consideration that 44,000,000 gallons of wine left over from 1921, it is evident that whatever else France may be short of it will not be wine.

It is anticipated by many dealers that a cut in the price of wine will be necessary to move the surplus stocks.

Federal Report Shows Farming Prospects Bright In Wisconsin

Washington — Crop prospects in Wisconsin are bright at the end of February, the department of agriculture announces.

In some portions of the Badger state however, recent storms left the fields ice covered. Snow put the soil in good shape for farming. Pastures and meadows are in good shape.

Livestock is generally on feed due to a shortage of forage. The health of all classes of animals is good.

Tobacco has been moving freely from the farms and prices received have been generally satisfactory. The farm labor supply still remains equal to requirements in practically all sections of the state.

Wisconsin and Michigan report large stocks of white potatoes and poorer grades are being fed to livestock. Sugar beet acreage in Wisconsin and Michigan is now being contracted and indications point to a large increase.

ON THE SCREEN

ADVENTURE, ROMANCE, DRAMA IN "KINDRED OF THE DUST"

Gripping drama, produced by a masterhead and enacted by a cast the strength of which could not have been improved upon, collectively or individually.

That is "Kindred of the Dust," an Associated First National attraction, produced by Raoul A. Walsh from the famous novel by Peter B. Kyne, whose readers are numbered in the hundreds of thousands. It started a 3 day run at the Elite Theatre yesterday.

Seldom have we beheld a picture which is so grippingly effective, thanks to the skill of the author and producer, and the talent of the cast. The suspense at the start of the tale is carried without diminution through out the six reels, and the gathering momentum results in a climax which literally brings one out of his seat. Especially noteworthy are the spectacular incidents of the story, such as a rescue on the log jam. The imminent danger of the two actors who imperil their lives before the camera is so apparent that the spectators lean forward with bated breath, fearful that one or both will slip through the logs and be drowned.

Throughout the tale there is a thread of romance which has particular appeal of its own, with Miriam Cooper as "Nan" of the Sawdust Pile," and Ralph Graves as Donald McKaye, playing the part of the lovers. Others in this exceptionally capable cast are W. J. Ferguson, the veteran actor; Eugene Bessner, Pat Rooney, Lionel Belmore, Maryland Mome, Essie Walters, Carolyn Rose, Kin, Bruce Guerin and John Herdman.

The girl gripped her hands, steadied her swaying body with the old sweet strength. Then the words came a bit more strongly.

"If they catch the Black Rustler this night—don't—don't let them—the Craz Oak—"

She wet her lips that were stiff and cold—she reached out a groping hand and touched the gun that always hung at the foreman's belt.

"Shoot—him, Tom," she said thickly. "Straight—ah!"—it was a sighing breath—"in—the—forehead for me!"

"I will," said Briston and was gone.

CHAPTER XX
"Greater Love Hath No Man".

Tragedy breathed upon the range-land. Father Hilaire felt it, pacing in his dry garden.

Belle Hannon felt it and ceased her plaintive playing. She came, sure of foot in the darkness, to the east door that opened into the patio.

"Val," she called.

The girl, clinging to the trunk of the cottonwood tree that stood above Bluewater, while she tried to beat her heart to bravery and hope, essayed three times to answer that call. Then she shook herself together by a supreme effort.

"Yes, Belle dear," she said.

"Eh?" said Belle, "what's the matter, Val?"

And Val answered, as she must, though the words seemed to tear out of her stifling heart.

"Signal-fire," she said, "that say—the Rustler's—out!"

"Great goodness!" said Belle. "Thank heaven—at last!" And Boyce Clendenning rides, of course. Oh, how I wish John were here! But Boyce will do the trick if it is possible. Let's hope it is.

The girl by the cottonwood looked at her mother with strained and piteous eyes. Then she dragged her body forward and took the reaching hand.

"I think I'll go to bed," said Belle, "good-night, dear."

Val listened and kissed her, listened dully to her steps returning into the house.

Then she, too, entered and groped her way, more blindly than Belle had ever done, into the far depths of her own south room.

And far away in the shadowed levels the Black Rustler himself played his last great game. A mad delight was in his heart, the daring and reckless courage that had marked him on the border rode high in him—like a wind whipping a prairie fire.

He whipped him to strong deeds, to the fine point of the long odds, to the joy of beating the ranchers by the width of a hair. He rode a horse upon whose gallantry he could depend—though there was one other he had rather had beneath his hand—and by his side rode an aged and powerful, companion of an hundred night-rides, huge bulk of a man on a powerful, raw-boned horse.

It was not far steers they took this night, neither anything that a man might need, but something to cut the loser with a lash of chagrin and rage—namely Black Princess, the fine young mare of whom the flying T had boasted much for this year's races. Gentlehearted, tractable, the Princess ran between their running hooves, making for the distant pass into the Blind Trail Hills, and the rising note of their speed proved that there was something in her, that the boasts had had foundation.

From time to time the Black Rustler rose in his stirrups and scanned the world around with his spires of flame upon the darkness, and at each sight he whooped with a mad laughter and struck a fist upon his pom-pom.

"Their little fires," he cried, "their horses! Their cocksure faith! While the Black Rustler rides out of their net like an eel!"

But their little fires covered a further readiness than he could know: their faith was solid as a rock—for many men were far along the sides of the net before the fires were set, and some of them had been down for three days by now. In fact, the pass was guarded by five men in the shadow of the cliff, one carried a good rope at his saddlebow.

For old Dame Fate was pleased to make a play in the range-land—and her bells were set to ring on the Rustler's number.

There were more horses about in the plains that night than any rider knew. For instance—a spotted pinto pony, like a ghost in the dark—and a great red horse with a shadow on his shoulders. These two met, by chance, where the Little Antelope cut down to its ford beyond Refugio, and there was a peal of vixen laughter, a taunt and a snarl that stilled the stars. The man on the stallion caught his breath, thought swiftly, and swore a low-toned oath.

Gotham Boss
Wants Girls To Wear Knickers

BY MARIAN HALE

"When all women wear knickers," says Vice President Harry Selmer of the Retail Clothiers' Association, proprietor of stores in New York, Philadelphia, Newark and Trenton, "there'll be fewer accidents."

"Girls will save time getting to work in the morning."

Because of their greater bodily freedom they'll be more efficient. "Legs will cease to be any novelty to men."

At the clothiers' recent convention Selmer announced that he was going to put all his stenographers into knickerbockers. He has done so, and the girls say they're pleased with the change.

SAVES LOTS OF TIME

"They're a great time saver," reports Marguerite Schmelz, stenographer in the Selmer Newark office. "I wear them at work, and would like to wear them on the street, too, but I'm waiting until they're a little more generally adopted."

"As a student of the history of costume, and knowing the grotesque, inconvenient abominations that designers, in search of the bizarre, have forced upon women," declares Pefard, the New York artist, "I'm glad someone has had the courage to encourage improvement in their attire."

"A woman in a natty knicker suit has more freedom of movement, and so is more graceful and enjoys better health than her sister who's hampered by skirts. She'll make a better wife and companion."

"I hope," intones Charles Keller, the big Brooklyn merchant, "that the knicker plan succeeds and spreads over the country. I'd like to see men dress the same way."

But Miss George W. Reid of Nyack, N. Y., prominent in feminist circles, discounts "The Bible," she insists, tells women how to dress. Instead of compelling modern girls to attire themselves wrongly, we should try to get them back to right ideas, so that they may lead normal lives and be worthy to become real men's wives."

PEARL WHITE TRIES TO FIND HERSELF IN CONVENT IN THE ALPS

Paris—Pearl White (herself) is a fugitive from Pearl White!

The real Pearl White is a refugee in an Alpine convent from the Pearl White the great American movie-going public knows as the queen of screen thrills.

Pearl White presents a rare study for psychologists. Demure, discreet, dignified—that is Pearl White's true personality. Dashing, dauntless, daring—that is Pearl White's false personality.

Personality No. 2 is her screen personality. It's the personality that has leaped from precipices, swam boiling torrents, leaped from speeding train to speeding train, jumped horses over yawning ravines, risked airplane adventures.

SCREEN PERSONALITY STICKS.

All went well so long as the real Pearl White could do personality No. 2 when the director called, "Cut!" But there came a day when Personality No. 2 pursued Personality No. 1 off of "the set."

Pearl White (herself) began to live away from "location" the highly nervous life she lived before the camera. Heroine-worshippers, in America and in Europe, contributed.

They invited her here, there, everywhere. Social invitations were pressed on her. She roamed from luncheon in Paris to dinner in London by airplane; then from dinner to dance by automobile—often 135 miles an hour over the channel, then 70 miles an hour from London hotels to country manors.

Pearl White (herself) was always in revolt against Pearl White!

The fight between the two personalities helped to break her health. Her constitution became weakened. Then came the disappearance of her former husband, Wallace, McCutcheon, and the sudden death of her former leading man, John Stevenson.

Her strength snapped.

Doctors diagnosed her case as a combination of nervous and physical breakdown.

"Absolute quiet!" they ordered. The alternative? Death!

WELCOMES ORDER

Pearl White (herself) welcomed the order. She selected a convent, where she has donned a novice's habit and is surrounded by quiet, prayerful nuns. She has elected the cloistered life—at least until her health is restored. That may be a long time.

"But, even more than physical strength it is necessary for the real Pearl White to build up her psychological strength, so that she will not succumb to Personality No. 2, once she has left the convent," said an eminent Parisian nerve specialist and psychologist today.

"Personality No. 2 will be awaiting her at the cloister gates, beckoning her back to the gay social life of Paris and London, with restaurant dinners, cabaret parties, dances—all

41 Inventions
To Credit Of Woman Genius

BY MARIAN HALE

Beulah Louise Henry has more inventions to her credit at the United States patent office than any woman in the country.

This means she's the world's champion inventor.

To be exact, she's patented 41 different articles.

She's president of three corporations formed to sell her products.

WHAT SHE'S INVENTED

Her triumphs include:

A trick umbrella that any number of covers can be adjusted to; it also telescopes into a small roll 15 inches long.

A variety case that's almost a dressing table.

A handbag with a miniature desk on one side and an equally miniature bureau on the other.

A decorative ice cream freezer that looks well on the dining-table and keeps cream frozen 12 hours.

A new-fangled pencil eraser.

A machine for making fingersnaps.

A can opener that really opens cans.

NEW KIND OF TOY

Her latest invention's a new kind of toy—dolls and animals—consisting of a finely coiled spring inside, a cotton stuffing and a rubber cover—flexible and practically indestructible.

"Nothing I've ever done," says Miss Henry, "has been so fascinating as making toys, because I do it out of sheer love for children."

"As for inventions in general," she continues, "a woman's needed in the field, to provide for women's and children's wants."

NEEDED IN THE HOME

"A man doesn't know what women need in their homes."

"I've in mind at least a dozen inventions to simplify housework."

Besides inventing, Miss Henry has written a book of poems and essays, is an excellent cook and a perfect housekeeper. Two years ago she arrived in New York from Memphis, seeking her fortune.

Feed Children
Only At Time
For Their Meals

BY DR. HENRY L. K. SHAW

A young child thrives best on three meals a day. These should be given at regular hours and no food should be given between these hours except in special instances.

The stomach performs its functions in a definite cycle and it takes about four hours to complete the digestion of a single meal. If more food is added before the stomach is empty, the work of digestion has to begin all over again and the normal cycle is disturbed with resulting fermentation and indigestion. The stomach requires rest between meals in order to do its best and most efficient work.

The following diet list is suitable for runabout children of the nursery age (two to five years):

Breakfast—7 to 8 A. M.

1. Fruit—Orange or grapefruit juice, baked apple, pears or stewed prunes.

2. Cereal—Farina, cream of wheat, Pettifohn, oatmeal, rice, cracked wheat, wheatena or corn-meal mush, etc. Or in place of the cereal, substitute a soft-boiled, poached or scrambled egg, or milk toast with grated yolk of hard-boiled egg, or bacon, crisp.

3. Cup of milk or cocoa made with milk.

4. Slice of toast, stale bread, bran bread or whole-wheat bread and butter.

Dinner—12 to 1 P. M.

1. Soup—Chicken, beef or mutton thickened with peas, barley or rice. All kinds of vegetables can be cooked in broth and strained. Milk or yolk of egg can be used in soup with vegetables.

2. Meat—Chicken, rare roast beef, lamb chop, rare steak or boiled or broiled fish.

3. Vegetables—Baked, boiled or mashed potato, boiled sweet potato, asparagus, carrots, new beets, stewed celery, boiled cabbage, stewed tomatoes.

One potato and one green vegetable can be taken at one meal. All vegetables should be thoroughly cooked

DRESS HINTS

CURLS AND PUFFS

Curls and puffs are seen on fashionable heads. Hairdressers report, too that the sale of side puffs, switches and bangs is excellent at the present time.

YOUTHFUL STYLES

Gowns of delicate-toned georgette, untrimmed save for drapery and a and mashed or put through a sieve. Macaroni, spaghetti or rice may be given instead of potato.

4. Dessert—Custard, junket, corn-starch, rice, bread or tapioca pudding, floating island, baked apple, baked banana, home-made ice-cream once a week.

5. Cup of milk or stale bread and milk.

Supper—5 to 6 P. M.

Milk soups, milk toast, bread and milk, crackers and milk, and well-cooked cereal, stewed fruit, apple sauce, plain sponge-cake, cup of milk or cocoa, stale bread and butter—From the March Delineator.

as much baking powder as can be taken on the point of a knife. When cooked, drain thoroughly, pressing out all the water which should be saved to make a cream soup for another meal. MIXED GRILL

To prepare a mixed grill for one person you will require:

One thick lamb chop, one lamb kidney, one sausage, one tomato, one mushroom cap, and butter, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

Prepare the chop for broiling.

Soak the kidney in cold water, then cover with boiling water for one minute; remove skin, split and saute in butter for five minutes; add Worcestershire sauce.

Cook the sausage; fry the tomato, cut in halves, in butter until soft; saute the mushroom cap (this may be omitted).

Broil chop, place on the fried tomato, which previously has been put on a hot plate. On one side of the chop place the kidney, and on the other side the sausage. Place the mushroom, if included, on top of the chop.

To a little melted butter add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce, pour over all, and serve at once.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

A southeast Russian bride calls on all the villagers on her wedding eve and receives from each a small present.

On her return home her hair is cut off and henceforth, when she appears in public, she must wear the platko or turban, of wool or linen, rolled about her head. This is the distinction between the married and unmarried.

UNIQUE TRIMMING

One large straw hat solves the problem of unique trimming by taking unto its crown a wreath of, rather queer looking cherries made of figured silk instead of the brilliant red one might expect.

Ruffles are coming back into favor rapidly. For debutantes are smart frocks of taffeta in pastel shades, the skirts composed entirely of ruffles.

Adventures Of
The Twins

Tricky Trixio Has An Idea

All the magicians and sorcerers were having a meeting under a gloomy, dark cliff.

There was, first of all, Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer. It was he who had called the meeting.

Then there was Bena Meena, who lived on the Dream Star, and Halloo-Hallo, who lived in a valley, and Tricky Trixio, who never lived in the same place twice, and the Sour Old Witch, who lived under a waterfall, and all the others.

They were talking about Nancy and Nick, who were riding back to Fairyland in the magic automobile. They were also talking about Light Fingers, the bad fairy, who had tried to get the automobile away from the twins and couldn't.

"Fie on you! For shame!" said Twelve Toes crossly to the bad little fairy.

Light Fingers hung his head.

"Very stupid, very stupid indeed," remarked Bena Meena sternly. "I gave him a perfectly good dream to use, and he just wasted it."

Light Fingers hung his head still more.

"And I gave him a magic egg with a stone wall in it," accused the Sour Old Witch. "Yet here he is—empty handed!"

By this time Light Fingers' chin nearly touched his chest, he was so ashamed of himself.

Suddenly Tricky Trixio spoke up. "Did any of you ever hear of a lasso?"

Nobody had ever and they were all curious.

So Tricky Trixio explained what it was and then said, "Why not try it on the magic automobile?"

"Fine! Fine!" cried everybody. "We'll get a rope at once."

But up in his tree-top, the Green Wizard heard them and smiled.

Of Day To Keep
In Best Spirits

BY MARIAN HALE

Have you the rush-hour gait?

Are you chronically over-tired?

Are your feelings easily hurt?

Are you hysterical or neurotic?

If so, you aren't living your life at the right tempo. You are not changing your rhythm from the time you bolt your breakfast until you fall into bed at night.

"Your days can be symphonies or discords—it depends on you," says Era Betzner, who at the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association, teaches New York business and professional girls how to relax.

STUDY THE AUTO

"If we ran our automobiles as we do ourselves, we would divide our time between a hospital and police court," she explained.

In running a car we change gears, obey city ordinances and control the speed as a matter of course. In running ourselves we fail to

DUFFY AND QUINN SIGNED FOR NEXT BOXING SHOW HERE

ATTRACTIVE CARD IS ARRANGED FOR MILL ON MARCH 7

Duffy's Opponent One Of Cleverest Middleweights In Middle West

Jack Duffy, the clever Chicago scrapper who was given a draw with Bill Welch here a few weeks ago, has been signed by promoter Elmer Johnston for the feature attraction of the next boxing bill in Armory G on March 7. His foe will be Gunner Joe Quinn of St. Paul, a clever, hard-hitting Mike Collins. The boys will be billed for a ten round attraction. Johnston signed Quinn after the latter whipped Frankie Grace in Milwaukee last Monday night. Grace boxed here a couple of years ago, stacking up against Jimmy Nuss. The Milwaukee wop is a clever boxer but Quinn made a monkey of him in Milwaukee. Duffy made quite a few friends here in his scrap with Welch. He went down twice after Welch rapped him in the face but he came back strong and earned a draw in ten rounds. Johnston figured he is clever enough to give Quinn a rattling good fight. The rest of the card has not been prepared but Johnston says there will be three preliminary sets. He is looking for some likely youngsters to use professionals in at least one of the other bouts. The show will be about the most attractive signed for Appleton in many months. Jack Zwick, Kaukauna's slugging Valentino, injured his hand in the Niko fight and isn't quite ready to go into the ring. He probably will be signed for a later show, providing the signs turn out in sufficient numbers on March 7 to warrant continuation of boxing in Appleton.

U. S. Tractor Team, Menasha, To Invade Appleton Next Week

Classy Basketbballers Will Play Holzer's Aces In Armory G Tuesday—Bushey Promises Good Game

Fred Bushey knows that Appleton knows about his crack basketbballers, the U. S. Tractors of Menasha, but now he wants to "show" Appleton. The veteran caging mentor will introduce the Tractors to the city next Tuesday night, March 6, in a game in Armory G with the Appleton Aces, the only professional team claiming the Paper City title this season. Leslie is preparing. The Aces, under the management of Leslie Holzer, after starting off with a bang went into obscurity more or less as far as Appleton was concerned but nevertheless played various teams in the state, winning a great many games and losing as many. Leslie, however, is getting prepared for the coming tilt, which by the way ought to be a good one, and he has signed a number of college lads as added force to his old team. Leslie is keeping the names of the school boys under cover with the exception of Grover, who played at center on the Lawrence team at the beginning of the season. Lois Arnold of former Bushey college fame and Elmer Dunn, member of the Appleton high school 1921 state champions, will be the Appleton forwards. Kessler and Fahlstrom will be the guards. Manager Holzer has several other men in reserve.

BUSHEY HAS STRONG TEAM Bushey will introduce the same team that made the "journey of triumph" through Wisconsin and Minnesota, cleaning up all but a few foes. His star will be Madison, center, who is expected to vie with Dunn in a caging duel. Other Tractors are Chapple and Kuehl, forwards and Anderson and Borden, guards. This outfit, with the exception of Kuehl is the identical team that Coach Denney turned into a championship squad when he tutored in the Twin Cities before coming here.

Despite the fact there were only two teams bowling in the Elks state tournament more changes resulted in the leaders' divisions. Tuesday in a few hours than in the combined at tracks on the wood the last several weeks. The laurel gatherers were the Lins Wieners and the Fenske's Elks, both topped a place in the five-man events and the members routed three leaders in the singles and managed to get in the money divisions in the doubles. Lins Wieners went into fourth place in the five-man events with a score of 2,791 while Fenske's artists now are eighth with 2,700 maps. A. Planer, lead off man for the Wieners, was the outstanding performer in the singles. His 636 pins put him in third place, displacing Halsey, another Milwaukee performer who rolled here several weeks ago. R. Reinke, also a Wiener, shot 612 for eighth place and "Biff" Fenske, secretary of the state bowling association, who was responsible for the big enrollment at the day classic last month, rolled into the place with 608 pins, sending P. Johnson of Appleton a notch lower and out of the first ten division.

In the doubles Fenske and Reinke performed best with 1,140 pins, languishing in the money class. Scores: FIVE MAN EVENTS Lin's Wieners, Milwaukee, 2,791. A. Planer, 568; F. Clintonville High Cagers Chalk Up 436 Points In 21 Games

Fear Villagers May Prove Stumbling Block For Appleton On Way To State Championship

If past records will have any meaning at all the Appleton district high school basketball tournament, March 8, 9 and 10, which is to decide the team that is to go to the state tournament the latter part of the month at Madison, will be a race principally between Clintonville and Appleton high school. Of the seven teams already picked Clintonville's record is almost incomparable with the others. Out of twenty-one games played Clintonville lost but two. Earlier information that Clintonville had lost two out of thirty games was wrong. The villagers not only won most of their games but swamped their opponents under a total of 436 points. The opponents chalked up 242 maps.

BUMPED ONLY TWICE Clintonville bumped into some excellent teams in the class it is generally regarded to be in. It lost its second game to Bear Creek, 10 to 15 but later on, whipped the Bear Creek five 20 to 13. Weyauwega gave Clintonville a 21 to 12 bump in the middle of the season. This game apparently was lost due to overconfidence, because the Four Wheel Drive boys won their next nine tilts, including a return game with Weyauwega which the Clintonville outfit nabbed by a 45 to 5 score.

Appleton cannot boast of such a record but it can be said in advance that it will be able to hold its own. Appleton played eight games thus far and lost one by a small score. Its aggregate points would be no more than about 500. It held its opponents to about one-third that number. Clintonville is a basketball mad town. Its high school gymnasium is one of the best in the state and the entire town is always on hand whenever there is a game.

Appleton is expected to have the advantage of superior floor work. Just what position Clintonville will be able to offer when it comes here next week is hard to venture. Those who believe in past performances see trouble ahead, others are inclined to think that most of the Clintonville opponents could have been cleaned up by the second team of the high school and that the Blue and Orange will romp through the other tournament entries with ease and will land a place in the state tournament at Madison, which is to be held beginning March 22.

The Clintonville record is interesting. Look it over:

LUTHERAN ENTRIES CLOSE SATURDAY

League Bowling Series Expected To Start On New Alleys Next Week

Saturday will be the last day on which entries will be received for the March games of the Lutheran Bowling league. More than 30 already have signed for the match and others who expect to take part are to register at the clubroom in the Insurance-bldg this week. Only enough women have registered to form one team but the bowling committee is trying to swell the number so there will be about four teams, making match games possible for them as well as for the men. Any member of the Lutheran churches of Appleton is eligible for this series of games if he takes out a membership in the bowling association.

Much practice work already is
